U.S. - D.O.J. 1/14

The Microsoft settlement that was agreed upon recently fits what is needed for the situation. Any further prolonging the case will do just one thing, fatten the already fat pockets of more lawyers. There should be no need to go any further than to settle this thing.

For some reason I do not see Microsoft as the villian that some do and in my use of microsoft products, I have always felt I had someone to turn to and get aid if needed. It has been a long hassle - let it die.
